

Name: Shaquela Hargrove

Major: Psychology

Conference Location: Southeastern Psychological Association (SEPA), Atlanta, GA

Conference Date: March 8th – March 11th

A few weeks ago, I attended the 63rd Annual SEPA conference. While there, I was 2nd author on a poster on research which explored how racism and social dominance orientation were predictors for attitudes toward homosexuality. Once again, I was able to discuss research I am interested in with fellow researchers. It was a great experience to be able to hear the opinions and suggestions from not only researchers from my cohort, but established professionals as well.

This trip would not have been possible without the assistance I received from the Honors College in the form of a travel grant. It is always a pleasure to witness the hundreds, if not thousands, of researchers come together to discourse over present issues in the realm of psychology. Thus, I would like to deeply thank the Shackouls Honors College for supporting my research travels and making my research dreams a reality.
