

Calling all Artists

The honors college in conjunction with Classical Week 2019 is hosting a student art exhibit and contest and we want you to participate! No matter if art design is your hobby or your life's dream-no matter what the medium is that you use to express yourself-you are encouraged to enter your design.

HOW TO ENTER:

- Read the Roman comedy, "The Braggart Soldier". The play will be presented during Classical Week. Scripts are readily available - check online - the Honors College office has a copy, 210 Griffis Hall.
- If the story inspires you, express yourself through a design that best reflects your interpretation of the theme/story.
- The art piece should be delivered to Dr. Donna Clevinger in the Honors Suite 210.
- Artist name and contact information should be placed on a card attached to the back of the piece.

Deadline is Wednesday, March 20 at 5 p.m.

All entries will be judged by a professional-working-artist based on how the design tells the theme/story of "The Braggart Soldier" most effectively. The winning design will be used on all print and media advertisements of the play. All entries will be part of a meet-the-artist exhibit and reception with the contest judge.
